

Water leak NOT a crisis

by Jeff Nazzaro

A water break last week on private, industrial property located on Ballardvale Street caused a slight drop in town water levels but did not result in a water crisis for Wilmington, according to DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer and Town Manager Michael Caira.

As news of the leak spread, so did untrue rumors of a water crisis. Palmer said the wackiest rumor he heard was that major water main breaks across town had led to a crisis and an emergency meeting of the board of selectmen. Caira reported that one resident said town officials were "asleep at the switch," an allegation he took offense to.

"It's really harmful for citizens to make the kind of allegations they do," Caira said, adding in effect that harm can result when people act or speak on "a little knowledge."

The break did cause a significant loss of water and concern on the part of town officials, but no major problems and Caira acknowledged that he notified Selectmen Chairman Diane Allan of the situation and kept her informed.

"Our tanks were low, but we didn't lose any pressure," Palmer said on Monday. "We're concerned but we don't have a crisis."

As a precaution, Palmer said the town hooked into Burlington's water supply and drew about 700,000 gallons of water. By comparison, the town uses between 2-3 million gallons of its own water per day, Caira estimated.

The Burlington hook-up was made, Palmer said, because with water levels low, a major demand, such as that created by a fire, could cause a loss of pressure.

Palmer said the Nassau and Hillside Way tanks were filled to capacity Sunday night, allowing the Butters Row Treatment Plant to shut down. But the Research Drive tank remained only about half full and the Sargent Treatment Plant continued to operate.

As an added precaution, crews were dispatched to check all hydrants in town for additional leaks. None were found, and both Palmer and Caira remain confident that the situation was successfully resolved. In fact, their biggest concern seems to be with the false rumors that circulated so quickly.

"I'm satisfied from everything I've heard and everything I've been involved in that things are okay," Caira stated, maintaining that there have been "no serious effects to the town as a result of this situation."

On Monday, Palmer said "We're not panicking and we don't think we have a crisis by a longshot." He was so confident in that, in fact, that he okayed Water Department Superintendent Michael Woods' scheduled vacation, albeit at noon on Monday, after things had settled down.

That is indicative of the relative ease with which the town's water department has handled this dry summer, which has caused problems and led to emergency bans in other municipalities.

"We're still not in bad shape. We're still meeting demands," Palmer said of the town's overall water situation. "Even with the break we're still meeting demands."

Walking for a cure

by Jeff Nazzaro

Monday evening, the day before school started in Wilmington, 10-year-old Nicholas Eaton was playing and playfully arguing with his older brother Jonathan, who is 12. Their main concern centered around the next morning, however, and a new school year, just as it did in thousands of homes across the town.

But three years ago, the priorities and concerns in the Eaton household were drastically altered when in November of 1992, Nicholas was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukemia, or AML. AML is the other leukemia, the one with the not-so-high success rate and also the more aggressive of the two cancers.

But after three months of intensive treatment at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, Nicholas' leukemia was in remission. Now, trips to Dana Farber are made just once a year, for a check-up, with blood checks made at a local hospital every three months.

"He's fine now," mom Rosemary Eaton said with just a tinge of emotion showing. "He's going to be fine."

But while the Eatons contend they are doing great, some of the families they encountered during their ordeal are not celebrating birthdays by blowing out candles, but rather by painfully dealing with loss at the hands of pediatric cancer.

"We've been fortunate and count ourselves as lucky," Rick Eaton said. "And we look forward to trying to help other people."

The Eatons will join an estimated 6,000 others in helping people, by participating in the 1995 Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk on Sept. 10.

Rick will walk the 13.2 mile half-marathon, the last half of the famed Boston Athletic Association course, from Wellesley to Boston, before meeting Rosemary, Nicholas and Jonathan for the final three miles. Those last three miles, from Dana-Farber to the official marathon finish line, comprise the Family Walk.

But Rick, who did the half-marathon walk for the first time last year, said the entire course is like a family walk. Despite walking alone, he forged bonds with walkers of all different backgrounds and walking paces, but who shared a common thread - lives touched by cancer.

"It's a very positive, emotional, but a positive bond between people trying to help in the research," he said.

50th Anniversary this year

Community Fund flea market coming

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Community Fund has been raising money to help Wilmington people for 50 years now, and Saturday, Sept. 9 will be no different, as the group holds a flea market on the grounds of the Swain School.

"We're hoping it's a good day," said Community Fund member Janet Allison.

The flea market has played host to between 18-20 vendors in the past couple of years, selling a wide variety of items, from handmade crafts to small leather goods.

And the Community Fund, as it has built a solid reputation doing, will provide the food. Of course here, the morning coffee and donuts and noontime lunch items and soda will be sold, to help insure that the Community Fund can continue to stock its Food Commissary.

For the past three years, the Wilmington Food Commissary has supplied 35-50 needy families in Wilmington with weekly meals, while working with local church and civic organizations to provide holiday feasts.

The commissary moves with the concerns over the isolated setting.

But, while that problem has not yet been resolved, O'Donnell said it has been the only snag in an otherwise smooth opening. The staff met Monday morning, she said, with oodles of positive energy, over a dozen new positions and a new business manager, Peter Rock.

Add to that the reopening of the Boutwell School, and things are looking good to O'Donnell and the school system.

Of course, the Boutwell solution will likely only hold off the town's still rapidly growing student population for another two years, but for now, O'Donnell is simply enjoying the start of another school year.

"We're ready to roll," she said Monday. "We're ready for the children tomorrow."

Jessica Harrison awarded "Two / Ten" scholarship

Jessica Harrison of Wilmington, has been awarded a scholarship by the Two/Ten International Footwear Foundation. Jessica was chosen from more than 600 applicants to this year's program. Jessica will use the award to attend University of N.H.

The Two/Ten International Footwear Foundation Scholarship Program was established in 1969 to provide need-based scholarships to people in the footwear, leather and allied industries. The program helps students meet the costs of higher education at colleges, vocational/technical schools, and nursing programs. Annual awards range from $200-$2,000 and may be renewable. Two/Ten grants scholarships on the basis of academic excellence, community involvement, personal promise, and financial need.

Founded in 1939, the Two/Ten International Footwear Foundation was created as a response to the suffering of shoepeople during the Great Depression. Now, over 13,000 members worldwide support the mission of "Shoepeople Helping Shoepeople." This year, Two/Ten will provide more than $1.6 million in assistance to shoepeople and their families through social services, emergency financial assistance, job placement services, a comprehensive retirement and health planning program, and college scholarships.

For more information about the Scholarship Program, contact Catherine M. Nelson, Scholarship Coordinator, at 56 Main Street, Watertown, Massachusetts, 02172. Application are now available for next year's awards.

It's YOUR Money

ARE YOU REALLY SELF-EMPLOYED?

Are you your own boss, or are you somebody's employee? The Internal Revenue Service has strong opinions about which is which, and it's causing a lot of tax agony around the country. The IRS wants to maximize its take, but no one wants to pay more taxes.

According to the IRS, a worker who must follow the boss's rules on when and how to work, who can quit or be fired without reason and who uses the boss's tools is an employee. An independent contractor sets his own work schedule, provides his own tools and equipment and may work for more than one business at a time.

Why does it matter? Because independent contractors can deduct work expenses and may be able to deduct a home office, too. They pay self employment taxes and can shelter more income for retirement. Employees pay only half of their Social Security and Medicare taxes; their retirement savings are capped at $9,500 or less, and fewer expenses are deductible.

What's your status? What can you deduct? Talk it over with the tax people at

Drug test 'em all

by James Pote

In the past few weeks, both Wilmington and Tewksbury Public Schools have voted against the Supreme Court ruling that athletes can be tested for drugs at high schools. Both of those school committees were dead wrong for not allowing this to happen.

I do agree with Tewksbury's school committee member Ed Dick that athletes shouldn't be targeted. If one student is tested, then all students should be tested. Whether it is the star quarterback or the trumpet player or the class president, I think that not only should Wilmington and Tewksbury high school students be tested, but students in every other high school across the country as well. Why, you may ask?

According to reliable sources, just last year, many of the star athletes from Wilmington and Tewksbury were heavily involved with alcohol and marijuana. Just the other day, I was talking to one father, who said his daughter came home the night before very upset because her friends on her high school team were all smoking marijuana with one of her friends' mother right there allowing them to do it.

Back when I went to high school, it was generally known, usually on second hand information, which athletes smoked marijuana and which athletes were on steroids. But, I'm not talking just about athletes, I'm talking about the entire school. Every kid should be tested. It's a serious problem and a lot of people know it - just ask a teacher in one of the two school systems who tells his or her students that he or she smokes marijuana to this day.

The only way drug and alcohol use will decrease in the school systems is to have each student tested. Randomly. If something like this occurred and it stopped one student from drug or alcohol abuse, then that alone would be worth it. It will not stop every kid who smokes marijuana or who has a beer, but to the student who is in junior high and is very naive and sees his older brother or sister doing drugs or having a beer, then stopping that child is what is most important.

There could be many ways to defeat the massive drug abuse problem that are happening in these two towns. My first suggestion is random drug testing. But, if that never gets passed, there are several other ways to at least cut down some of the problems. First, parents, teachers and coaches must be aware of the student-athletes or their children. A coach should be aware if his or her player is intoxicated while in practice session (I have seen that a couple times during the past few years).

Another step is one that involved myself when I played hockey at Wilmington High. The team always had games on Saturdays. And every Friday night, Bill Cullen, who was the head coach at the time and now is the head coach at Andover High School, would have bedcheck. Bedcheck meant that Cullen would call my house, for example, at ten o'clock. He had to have talked to me. My parents couldn't have told him I went to get a pizza or was sleeping - I would have been off the team. If I was sleeping, he would ask my parents to wake me up. No matter what, he had to talk to me and make sure it was me by asking questions that he knew that I only knew.

Then, a half an hour later, he would call my house again, just to make sure I didn't slip out the back door and go out partying and stay up late with the game the next day. If the kids on his team wanted to play hockey bad enough, they wouldn't sneak around, because Cullen always found out. So, the partyers and the would-be drug users would be put on hold for at least a night. That strategy was miserable at the time that I had to be home on a Friday at ten o'clock, but as a coach that is common sense. He not only had his players well rested for the big games, but he also saved them from being in trouble, from being eventual drug and alcohol abusers.

See, common sense isn't that difficult. You just have to use it once in a while.

They just said "No"

by Jeff Nazzaro

When the Tewksbury School Committee voted last week not to implement random drug testing on athletes, it did the right thing. Primary dissent came in the form of not wanting to single out athletes for drug testing, which may imply that if all students were required to submit to random drug tests they would be okay. If that is the case, the committee still did the right thing, but for the wrong reason. But I feel confident that the committee acted on behalf of athletes because that group happened to be under fire. No doubt they would have voted down random drug testing for just, say, drama club members, also.

No public high school student should be subjected to random drug testing. It is simply too great an infringement on civil liberties. By law, all teenagers of a certain age must attend high school. If random drug tests of all students were allowed, it would be the same as writing a law that said all Americans, upon reaching the age of 14 or 15, are automatically eligible to be randomly tested for drugs. That is a frightening proposition. To carry the argument further, while mandatorily attending high school, it is my opinion that students should attempt to gain the best experience possible; and that might necessarily include participation in a sport. If to do so also constituted submitting to random drug testing, nothing is gained from the previous scenario.

Of course, high school students are easy pickins' for the Supreme Court and lawmakers - they don't vote. Try passing mandatory drug testing laws on senior citizens to crack down on prescription medication abuse. Drug abuse, and we all know it happens on a wide level in every corner of the country amongst every age segment, is not the issue. Rights are. Place the random drug testing and locker search rulings in perspective. Should police be allowed to randomly search car trunks without probable cause of a crime? Should they be able to pull over random cars and make the occupants submit to drug tests just for traveling on a public road? Absolutely not. And the hallways of Tewksbury High should be no different than Route 38. Different rules must apply, but rights should be consistent. And persons in public, at the library or on the Town Common, at the park or walking along the road are not, to my knowledge anyway, currently subjected to random drug tests.

Is there a problem with drugs in our high schools? Yes. Is this a bad thing? Absolutely. Is random drug testing the best way to cure the problem? Definitely not.

Unfortunately, in this wonderful day and age, coaches and teachers must be more than that. They must also be counselors and parents (think about that the next time you feel the urge to chastise teachers for wanting a little better salary despite only working 180 days - our teachers should be better qualified and better compensated, and the only way to get the one is by giving the other). With excellent programs like DARE in place for younger students, drug prevention is being applied. It is up to teachers and coaches to snag those who slip through the preventative cracks. If a problem with drugs or alcohol is that bad, it shouldn't be too hard to detect.

But is the problem that bad? The biggest problem with high school students and substance abuse, despite remarkable gains, remains weekend beer bashes and the driving deaths that sometimes result. Random drug testing would not impact these tragedies. As far as problems with athletes and drugs, how bad are they? If a student-athlete is using drugs, that person needs help. And taking them out of the sport after a positive test for say, marijuana, might just be the worst thing that could happen.

The Tewksbury School Committee should be commended for its stand against the infringement of students civil liberties. Our students should be tested on what's in their minds, not their bladders.

McCoy met criteria

Dear Larz:

I was present at the last selectmen's meeting relative to Mike McCoy of Michael's Place. He met all the town board's criteria. It's obvious to me and a lot of people that politics played the roll of his defeat of his liquor license.

We have two puppets on the board

Allen and Wandell and they take orders from the person behind the scenes.

It all had to do with one vote Mike McCoy made and he is still paying the price. But at least he is his own man.

Thank you,
Reno Rizzo

Liquor vote political

Dear Larz:

Michael McCoy is 100 percent correct when he says Diane Allen's negative vote on his liquor license is political. She stated last year she would have no problem voting for McCoy's license if he had approval from the Board of Health. She cited this as the only reason she voted the license down in 1994.

Well, McCoy came before the board again last week and Diane Allen did not honor her word. It seems "honor" is something a lot of women seem to lack when you give them positions of power in this town. Diane Allen is no different than several women who used to sit on our school board, women who used their positions to carry out personal agendas. Women who weren't happy unless they were cutting some man off at the knees.

The three "new" reasons Diane Allen cited for denying the liquor license are pathetic: (1) character and background. McCoy had an altercation with Bob Cain several years ago; they have since mended their fences and become friends. This shows tremendous character on the parts of both men in that they were able to do this and successfully continue to work together on the board. I believe McCoy has demonstrated his commitment to Wilmington, its children, its schools, etc. I am aware of his longtime donations to the food pantry, offering his restaurant to local sports teams for their banquets; his exceptional commitment to the problem of school over crowding, to name just a few. I think overall McCoy has done an excellent job on the board for our town. (2) input from abutters. I understand abutters complaining about food smells coming from the restaurant, but McCoy is not asking to expand his kitchen or increase his cooking. The smells will remain, as is, regardless if he gets his license or not. (3) her "perception" that town meeting was against further industrial zoning on Lowell Street. Perhaps Mrs. Allen doesn't understand that "further" means additional, not existing. McCoy's restaurant has been operating for over 10 years. I'm sure he has worked very hard to build up his customer base. I always see many cars there when I pass by. Many times it's packed - and this is without a liquor license. I do not think giving him a liquor license will significantly impact traffic.

McCoy and I were on opposite sides of the fence several years ago over the town manager's raise. Though he was against it, McCoy has since worked well with the town manager and subsequently was the swing vote that renewed his contract two years ago. Diane Allen was definitely against the renewal. It doesn't take a genius to put two and two together here. This is as political as it gets.

Is Diane Allen as good as her word? Apparently not. McCoy came forward with his Board of Health approval, but Allen did not honor her word. Political? You bet. Will people remember this when she's up for election next April? I hope so.

Curriculum misconception

Dear Larz:

The purpose of this letter is to clear up a misconception regarding our eighth grade health curriculum that appeared in your newspaper in a letter to the editor. The list of topics which appeared in the letter has been revised under the leadership of the middle school principals. Our Health Education program is in the process of revision using the State Frameworks. The specific family and sexuality unit presently taught by our teachers is framed within the Strategic Plan, the State Frameworks, and the parental permission process practiced by the principals.

The Wilmington Public Schools' Strategic Plan clearly defines our commitment to the principle that education is the responsibility of the entire community and needs to be a community priority with effective community support.

The Department of Education's Health Curriculum Frameworks clearly states "School health programs that begin early to educate and promote the well being of all students often help students avoid problems like substance abuse, sexually transmitted diseases, or eating disorders. Students discover that health means much more than the absence of disease of the avoidance of danger. Making choices that promote health and well being can make life more satisfying, productive, and rewarding."

Furthermore, the back bone of these frameworks emphasizes the following: "Effective school health education is one component of a comprehensive school health program, closely linked to families and integrated with community agencies, health and social services, congregations, and other organizations."

Health Literacy, Healthy Self Management and Health Promotion are the three core concepts of learning in health. These concepts incorporated in the recently adopted K-5 Science/Health curriculum are extended to our middle and secondary programs.

At our middle schools a component of our grade eight program is Family Life and Human Sexuality. Our policy clearly invites parents to meetings at our schools to review all materials, videos, and speakers related to this unit. Parental permission is a requirement for student participation in Family Life and Human Sexuality Unit.

A positive learning environment requires respect for oneself and for others. The Wilmington Public Schools recognizes and fosters this belief.

Very truly yours,
Geraldine A. O'Donnell, Ed.D.

Interrupters Diana Miladin, Betsy Woods and their mother, Maggie Imbimbo grace the graffiti walls of the famed Main Street club house. The Interrupters have just released Vol. IV of their News & Review (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

A year of literary interruptus

by Jeff Nazzaro

They've been interrupting each other for far more than a year now, but it has been roughly 12 months since Maggie Imbimbo and her daughters, Betsy Woods and Diana Miladin, began documenting their love of life, art, politics, conversation and The Big W into one neat little package: The Interrupters News & Review.

Four volumes after the first, the Interrupters look better than ever in eye-pleasing robin's egg blue and a batch of new poetry, prose, essays, commentary and other fun stuff.

Along the way, the Interrupters discovered new friends and old, a lot of hard work and a lot of pleasant surprises.

"We just said do it and we did it," Miladin said of that first issue. "We learned how to do it as we did it."

This almost seat-of-the-pants approach proved to be very satisfying and enriching for the women, while also producing an earthy, somewhat raw, irrepressibly homey and thoroughly readable local literary journal.

"I think the best thing about it was that people seemed to like it," Miladin said. "It was satisfying. It kind of made all the hard work worth it."

And through four issues, the Interrupters have not lost sight of those qualities - the things that made the News & Review such a refreshing burst of local art in the first place.

The Interrupters manifesto, which appears in every edition of the News & Review and describes the group as "a loose affiliation of artists, writers, thinkers and other creative/intelligent individuals connected to the community of Wilmington, MA" says it all: "The purpose of this publication is to provoke thought, promote the works of its contributors, inform and entertain the community."

What the reader discovers within the journal's pages is work by local people inspired by local events, settings and other local people. And what is not identifiable by meaning is at least recognizable by name. Even a work which has failed aesthetically hits home - in a very special, literal sense.

Of course, the Interrupters are aware that it is the contributors who make the mag - they write it, after all. And while the corps group has plenty of editorial and artistic input, they continue to revel in presenting the works of local writers.

Through the experience, the publishers have found many new writers, many first time submitters and published the first works of many authors. Then, while adding new writers, the Interrupters have seen past contributors blossom, due largely to the confidence gained from seeing their work in print.

"I feel really good about helping people to do that," Miladin said of breaking through the self-consciousness many writers are plagued by.

For Volume IV, the first anniversary issue, the Interrupters feature again the popular love poems of Peter Lepore and new verse from photographer Carol Ann Pullo and local chiropractor Jan Burns.

There are also moving pieces from Wesley Moore Jr., including the eulogy of a loved one. That works runs in stark contrast to two fantastical pieces the Interrupters bill as "Paranoid Prose," one from Woods and the other from some newspaper writer that's not too bad despite being perhaps a little out there.

Then there's the regulars - a portrait of local-bred artist Joe Landry by Woods and a fun version of Maggie's Almanac supplied in the form of recipes from Audrey (Irwin) Riddle and her brother Ed Irwin complement another scathefest from socio-political commentator Shamus Moore, who takes on America's supposed favorite pastime: whining.

All told, with new graphics and interesting formatting, it could be the best News & Review yet, though the Interrupters aren't going to lay back on their literary laurels.

"The goal for the second year is to have an error free issue," Miladin stated.

Which isn't impossible, except for those pesky errors that pop onto the page only after the first several hundred copies have been printed (except, even the first several hundred copies contain the errors, too - go figure).

The mistake they most need to correct in Volume IV is the phone number listed on the back page. It should read 657-7098.

Which is a good number to call to break into the Interrupters News & Review via subscription.

Copies should be available at the library, senior center and various newsstands and restaurants in town. Submissions are always welcome. Send them to: The Interrupters! 166 Main St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Old Tewksbury cemetery is now part of Lowell

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Deacon Eldad Worcester of Tewksbury, a native of that town, was born in 1732. He died of jaundice, at his home February 1, 1779, in his 47th year.

Eldad married Rebecca Osgood, also of Tewksbury February 26, 1761. Except for his military service during the Revolution, he is believed to have never left the town in which he lived.

He was buried in the Clark family cemetery, of Lowell, which was, at that time a part of Tewksbury.

His farm was westerly of North Street, Tewksbury, near what was at one time the "town farm." It constituted a part of a larger area which has been conveyed to developers, and, it is to be believed, will soon become a residential development. The old Tewksbury Town Farm, in part, describes the area.

Worcester, after his death, was buried in a cemetery on the Clark farm, Clark Road, in Tewksbury and Lowell takes its name from that farm. The area became a part of Lowell in 1832, after a lot of discussion and agitation because Lowell cotton mill manufacturers had moved into the area, and were more interested in what was happening a mile or so away, at the mills, rather than Tewksbury Center, about three miles distant.

Today that part, formerly Tewksbury, is called Belvedere.

The Tewksbury Historical Commission was told the news at its monthly meeting on July 20 by Raymond Paczkowski, a Tewksbury resident who has a part interest in the development of the area. The Commission appointed Mr. Paczkowski "guardian" of the cemetery.

The final resting place of Dr. Eldad Worcester, once of Tewksbury, is an overgrown and neglected little cemetery off Clark Road in Lowell. All the land from the Tewksbury town line to the junction of the Merrimack and Concord Rivers, at Saints Memorial Medical Center, was once part of Tewksbury.

Stone's in the Garden

Seeing Red... when tomatoes abound

by Jackie Leszczak-Stone

Our tomato crop is coming in better than expected. Routine, deep watering during a parched summer has resulted in an acceptable, but not a bumper crop. The tasty salad varieties; cherries, early cascade and yellow pears disappear fresh from the garden, or sliced and sprinkled with olive oil, balsamic vinegar and fresh basil. The question of the season is...What do we do with 25 to 35 pounds of plum tomatoes (Roma VF and Giant Pasta) that we pick every five days?

Since using home grown produce is one of the joys of gardening, I thought you might enjoy some of my favorite tomato recipes. These recipes are for large scale freezing, but they can be scaled down to dinner for four size by dividing everything by five. (I don't can. I can can, but I'd rather freeze. All of these recipes can be canned, if you can.)

Fresh tomato salas ode la Stoneo: Ingredients: 60 plum tomatoes, 8 yellow onions, 1-3 sweet Bell peppers, 8 to 15 hot peppers (1 mix jalapeno with Hungarian and Italian Hots), one bunch fresh coriander (cilantro), 8 tbs. cumin spice, 4 oz canned tomato paste, 1 tbs. olive oil.

Preparation: Add oil to bottom of 6 quart soup pot. Roughly chop whole tomatoes in food processor, add to pot and heat. Coarsely chop onions, sweet and hot peppers. (Adjust ratio of sweet to hot peppers according to taste.) Finely chop cilantro. Add cumin and all chopped ingredients and bring mixture to a low boil. Add tomato paste to thicken. Simmer for 10 to 30 minutes and pour into clean, pint sized freezer containers. Seal, cool and freeze. Yields about 10 pints.

Note: If salsa is over cooked it will lose its fresh chunkiness and become Mexican style pasta sauce.

Barbecue Roasted Tomato Sauce: This is a sweet and hearty sauce base that can be used as is or meat may be added later. It avoids long kitchen preparation on hot days and it picks up a mild smoky flavor from the grill.

Ingredients: 120 whole plum tomatoes, 5 large yellow onions, 5 bell peppers and 10 garlic cloves all coarsely chopped, 5 tbs. olive oil, fresh chopped basil, oregano, salt and pepper to taste.

Preparation: In a very large roasting pan combine whole tomatoes with chopped onions, peppers and garlic. (I can only roast 60 tomatoes at a time so I split the recipe into two batches). Sprinkle with 2 tbs. oil. Place on hot grill and roast for 60 minutes. If pan fills remove and save excess juice. Allow roasted tomatoes to cool. Slip skins from tomatoes and discard skins. Combine skinned tomatoes, remaining juice, roasted pepper and onion bits with reserved juice in a 6 qt. sauce pot containing 1 tbs. oil. Add basil and oregano to taste. Bring sauce to a boil on barbecue or on stove top, simmer till thickened. Add salt and pepper to taste if needed. Use fresh and/or freeze. Yields about five quarts.

Fresh Frozen Whole Tomatoes: These can be used to make a garden fresh sauce now or in the depths of winter. Bring 3 quarts of water to a boil in a 6 quart sauce pot. Drop in 20 whole plum tomatoes. Allow water to come to a boil and poach tomatoes for about a minute. Remove with a slotted spoon and allow to cool. Slip off skins and place skinned tomatoes in a freezer container (zip lock freezer bags work well.) Twenty plum tomatoes make just under a quart.

And if you are overwhelmed with fresh produce, or tired of tomatoes already, remember...the Wilmington Food Commissary accepts donations from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays or call 658-5107 for special arrangements. Catholic Charities of Lowell, located at 700 Merrimack Street, accepts donations from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, (454-9946). Vision House, 460 East Street Tewksbury, accepts donations from 3 to 4 p.m. weekdays; call 640-6309.

The phenomenon has not gone unnoticed by Walk coordinators. "The Walk is unique because the majority of the participants have in some way been touched by cancer, whether they are a patient themselves or have a family member or friend with cancer. In fact, more than 1,208,000 Americans were diagnosed with cancer in 1994," noted Walk Director Jeff Hubbard.

Rick made up his mind in 1993, following Nicholas' fight with AML, that he would walk the next year, and every year after that. The money he raises will be pooled with that earned by the nearly 6,000 other walkers expected this year and given to the Jimmy Fund for cancer research and treatment. Last year, more than 5,000 walkers brought in over $1.5 million. This year the goal is $2 million.

The Jimmy Fund is the prime fund raising arm of the Dana-Farber Institute and is supported by thousands of individuals, groups, media members, and corporations throughout New England. Nearly 90 cents of every dollar contributed goes directly to cancer research and treatment at the institute.

After their own experience, the Eatons are pledged to helping to find a cure for cancer.

"It's nice to beat this disease," Rosemary said. "Someday everybody is going to beat this disease."

To help the Eatons beat pediatric cancer, a sponsorship may be made by sending a check payable to the "Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk" to: Jimmy Fund Walk, St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Chapel, P.O. Box 294, Wilmington, MA 01887.

members of the Community Fund Board of Directors, a group which works voluntarily, confidentially and in many ways anonymously to benefit fellow townspeople in need. But the commissary is not all this group runs.

Receiving all its monies from fund raising and private donations, the Community Fund contributes to several local agencies that help people in town; host the Adopt-A-Family program, where anonymous sponsors help a family meet Christmas needs; and last year awarded three scholarships to graduating Wilmington seniors at WHS and Shawsheen Tech.

And the Fund still does what it began doing 50 years ago - responding to local emergencies with timely assistance. Whether it be a home destroyed by fire, health problems, trouble paying utility bills in the winter because of some emergency, or help needed installing a wheelchair accessible ramp, the Fund has been there since 1945 and shows no signs of letting up. Just the opposite, in fact.

"We've kind of expanded some of our activities within the last two or three years," Allison noted.

The Sept. 9 flea market on the front lawn of the Swain School is just another in a 50-year line of fund raising by the Wilmington Community Fund.

Tables are still available, and cost $20 for the day, which in this case runs from 7:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Call Theresa at 658-6593, or Dennis at 658-5149 to reserve a space - tables must be brought by the vendor.

The rain date for the flea market will be Saturday, Sept. 16, at the same time, same place.

Help celebrate the Wilmington Community Fund's 50th Anniversary next Saturday with a cup of coffee, a donut and a little shopping. Because like Allison said and everyone should know, "It's really for very worthy causes."

The soil clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The test method will be the same as used by the UMass Extension Service. Just take your soil sample to their table to have the soil pH determined and receive a recommendation for liming your soil.

A good soil sample will help provide you with more accurate results. The sample should reflect the type of garden area being tested. For lawn samples collect a slice of soil from the surface level down to four inches deep. Collect several samples across your lawn and combine them and place about one cup of the soil mixture in a baggie.

For garden samples, collect soil from the surface level down to six to eight inches deep (where the plant roots are located). Combine and mix multiple garden samples to assure accuracy.

Forms for additional testing at the UMass Extension Service will also be available at the Garden Club table. Take your own dirt!

Business financing

Business financing may become available for Wilmington businesses if the Town of Wilmington is successful in applying for an economic development grant through the State Executive Office of Communities and Development. The proposed grant program would establish a revolving loan program to assist businesses for improvements to commercial and industrial property, purchase of capital equipment, working capital, or other activities to stimulate economic growth. Loans could range from $5,000 to $35,000.

Greatly missed along life's way,

Quietly remembered every day.

No longer in our lives to love and share,

But in our hearts you're always there.

I often stand before your grave,

Your loss is so much to bear.

Not many know the heartache

When I turn and leave you there.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed,

Wynn Middle School principal named to attend national institute

Christine L. McGrath, Ph.D.
Superintendent of Schools
Tewksbury

Dr. Rick Hawkins, principal of Wynn Middle School, Tewksbury was selected as one of 46 principals nation-wide to take part in the Annenberg Institute of School Reform Principals' Institute. He was the only principal from Massachusetts selected. Participants are principals of schools deeply involved in restructuring and identified with a reform group. Wynn Middle School qualifies as such a school since it has completed its third year of restructuring from a junior high to a middle school model and because of its association with the Teaching for Understanding project at Harvard University.

Because the Annenberg Institute for School Reform recognizes the need for a continuing dialogue about the evolving role of strong leadership in restructuring schools, the institute is sponsoring a year long seminar for school principals about the role and future of the principalship. Principals meet four times per year to investigate new directions in leadership, governance, support of classroom instruction, and the evolving structure of schools. The Annenberg Institute hopes to create a community of school leaders willing to use their experiences and expertise to describe a new vision of leadership and school change. The participants met for five days in July at Brown University and will reconvene twice during the 1995-96 school year for two three day meetings and then for one final seminar in July of 1996. The Institute provides all lodging, meals, and materials for all four seminar gatherings.

The Annenberg Institute for School Reform seeks to nurture, promote and sustain a comprehensive, nationwide school reform movement. It bears the name of its principal benefactor, Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg. The Institute was created in October 1993 as a semi-autonomous, permanent unit at Brown University with initial funding of $5 million from anonymous donors. Principal, long-range support is derived from a $50 million gift from the Annenberg Foundation as part of Walter H. Annenberg's $500 million "challenge to the nation" to improve America's schools. The work of the Institute is guided by three fundamental principles:

(1) Every child is special, and every child can and must learn.

(2) Rigorous intellectual performance is expected of every student.

(3) Educational policy in support of each child's learning must reinvigorate democracy and authority at the child's immediate community level.

The Institute plans to link clusters of schools and communities that can demonstrate a dramatically more appropriate and more effective form of learning for America's young citizens. We are fortunate that Dr. Hawkins was selected to represent Wynn Middle School and the Tewksbury Public Schools.

Acting classes offered by Wilm. Arts Council

Once again in answer to popular request, the Arts Council will sponsor acting classes for young people ages three, four and five years through those who are now in grade eight.

The classes for three, four and five-year olds will be held Monday afternoons from 1:15 to 2:15 beginning Monday, Sept. 18. These classes will be story centered with young people playing acting games. Classes for third, fourth and fifth graders will be held from 2:30 to 3:30, also beginning Monday, Sept. 18. Classes for 6, 7 and 8th graders will be from 3:45 to 4:45 also beginning Sept. 18.

The classes will involve new improvisations, the use of masks, TV acting, and story telling. Classes will be held at the Arts Center (Old Town Hall) on Middlesex Avenue across from the Congregational Church.

Miss Judith Durkee, who has a teaching degree from Wheelock College and is a professional actor in Boston will again be the instructor. Her warm personality made her a well liked teacher, and her classes were happy and rewarding for her young students.

In conformance with its policy, the Arts Council will offer the lessons at a minimal cost - $5 per lesson.

For further information and registration contact Judith Durkee, 506 Salem St., Wilmington, MA 01887; telephone 508-694-9680.

BECOME AN ACTIVIST!

Do you think your neighborhood schools could do a better job of teaching your children? Do you feel that your local services are not up to par? If you are waiting for someone to do something about it, you might consider a different approach.

Around the country people have made a big difference by taking responsibility for what goes on in their community. Whether through PTA or a local citizens' association, individuals are asking what they can do to improve things. Even though there are elected officials whose job it is to make the community work, they can't work miracles without the support of their constituents. The neighborhoods where people are involved are typically the ones which newcomers find the most desirable places to live! The next time you get a notice about a public hearing or other activity that has an impact on your community, try it on for size. It just might fit!

Workers from Tri-State Signal install a temporary signal on the corner of Woburn and Lowell streets Tuesday morning, easing traffic headaches. There have been many near misses and a few accidents, probably due to the reduced number of signals available. Drivers coming from I-93 had only one red light and that was on the left hand side, before the intersection.

Wilmington senior topics

So-long August

The month of August will be leaving on Friday. It was a good month for those who love warm weather. Excellent weather for vacations at the beach, but for most of the senior citizens, the month was extremely hot and their fans and air conditioners were overworked. Now most seniors are looking forward to September bringing in cooler weather. Some seniors during the unbearable hot days took advantage of the air conditioned Senior Center, exercising, dancing, playing bingo and whist, and attending faithfully all the classes. Thanks go out to volunteers who made calls and home visits to seniors living alone and not getting out too much. These volunteers made sure the seniors were comfortable and eating.

Looking ahead to fall

Now it's time to look ahead to the beautiful months of the fall season. All the programs and classes at the Center did not shut down for the summer months. They will continue as they were doing. In August a new class, sewing, knitting and crocheting was added. It is held each Thursday morning at 9 in the craft room. Three seniors volunteer will help those interested to learn these crafts, free. They are Ann Latta who will help with sewing. She is a very talented person, as will be seen on the doll table in the Senior Christmas Fair. She has searched everywhere for dolls to dress for the fair and has made all the cloths for them.

Claire Goodman and Marilyn McCarthy are two very talented women who have volunteered their talents teach any senior wanting to learn how to knit and crochet. Their articles are beautiful as will also be seen at the Senior Fair.

These three women will happily teach those seriously wanting to learn their crafts.

September therapeutic social Sign up for the September therapeutic social will close Friday, September 1. The social will be held at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall. A roast beef dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Music will be provided for dancing. A $3 non-refundable deposit will be required when signing up, to help defray the cost of the social.

Lunch program resumes

With the opening of school the fall meals program will resume. Meals will be served at the high school. There are three types to select from. A full course dinner; a sandwich and salad with fruit or soup and milk or salad, soup, fruit, desert and milk. Every meal is $1. One cannot go to the school for a meal unless they have called the Senior Center the day before to order one. The nutritionist calls Ann Quinn at 9 a.m. to order meals for the seniors who are to eat at the school.

Eating together is another way to socialize with other seniors and make new friends. For $1 a person can eat the main meal of the day and in the evening have a light lunch. During the fall and winter months the seniors' meals are served at 12:15.

The home delivered meals will also resume at the same time. Any senior who is unable to get to the high school due to disability, illness or very advanced age should call the Center the day before a meal is wanted or the Friday for the following week. The delivered full course meals will cost $1. All full course meals are listed in the newspaper. If a person prefers, they may double up on another meal by calling the Center. It will have to be a meal that can be refrigerated to double up.

Miceli protects rights of senior citizens

Rep. Miceli and his colleagues in the House have overridden two gubernatorial vetoes that restrict nursing home access. Prior to the override elders living in nursing homes were in danger of losing their beds when they left to seek life sustaining medical attention. These seniors were also burdened with restricted access to desperately needed Medicaid-funded care. "Our elderly citizens do not deserve to be treated with such disrespect," said Miceli.

After a meeting at Blair House in Tewksbury with residents from various nursing homes in the area, Rep. Miceli was determined to do everything he could to help their cause. Their fears and concerns could not go unnoticed.

Legislative action was taken to protect the rights of elders. "The administration wanted to kick these citizens out of their beds after a 10 day medical leave and after a 15 day non-medical leave," said Miceli, "I won't allow it."

Rep. Miceli is and always has been committed to providing senior citizens with the rights and benefits that they deserve. "It is reprehensible to cut funding in any way for our elders in need of medical attention. I have never, nor will I ever tolerate budget cuts of this nature," concluded Miceli.

WHS Field Hockey preview

New coach, new league, new attitudes, new team

by James Pote
Every fall, the WHS athletic program can count on at least one winning team. For what seems like an eternity, WHS has always had a fantastic field hockey program.

This year however, the team doesn't appear - on paper anyway - to have that championship caliber team that they usually have. First year head coach Maureen Noone realizes that, but she also doesn't think the team will just roll over and die.

"I think we may surprise some teams this year. All of the girls have come in in very good shape. We have a lot of speed and I think that will really help us. My goal is for the team to play .500 and get into the state tournament," Noone said.

"The Cape Ann League is very strong in field hockey. North Andover, Georgetown, Amesbury and Rockport all could be very strong this year. If the kids stick work comes along and they continue to hustle the way they have been, then we will do okay," she continued.

Noone was named head coach after Jan Urquhart resigned, for personal reasons, after a short, two-year stint at the helm following 22 years as an assistant.

Noone, 32, a special education teacher at the Wildwood Elementary School, has had plenty of coaching experience.

She began her coaching career in Stoneham, where she graduated from high school, coaching the junior high field hockey team. She then came to WHS in 1989 as the junior varsity coach in both volleyball and softball. She was named the junior varsity coach of field hockey after Jan Urquhart jumped to coach at the varsity level in 1993.

"I really liked coaching these kids in JV. These girls are all great kids and I think it's worth coaching them with their abilities and their attitudes," Noone said of why she took the job.

The team just completed their first week of double sessions. Noone said the team is in very good shape and a lot of that is due to lone captain Leanne Harris and the captains practices she held. With just seven varsity players returning, the road may be tough at first, but Noone believes the tip-top physical condition of the team could benefit them in the new league.

"The tradition here has been unbelievable - both Jan [Cassidy] and Jan [Urquhart] did an excellent job. And I don't think we are too far off from getting that tradition back. The town has a youth program now and the numbers continue to grow. The girls will just have to work harder and harder," Noone said.

The team doesn't open their regular season until Monday,

September 11 at home against Manchester. From now until then, the team has scrimmages, jamborees and non-league battles that will untangle the open positions and roster spots. Noone wants to keep at least 15 regulars, with three to four floaters between the varsity squad and the junior varsity team, which is now under the control of Mary Ann Gillis.

"Right now I have a general idea of who is going where, but nothing is close to being definite. There are several spots open and I won't figure those out until a few more days of practicing and most especially the pre-season matches," Noone said.

The past few seasons, a lot of the team's success came from the netminder's position, held by Kerry Anderson. With the all-star gone, this year's team has several candidates and again Noone will only know who will be the starter after the pre-season is over.

Right now, senior Jenn Mullins is the lone person with actual game experience. But, junior Deanna Ward, who had an excellent season last year as a forward on the varsity club (and also as the first female in WHS history to play ice hockey) is also getting a shot. Sophomore Jodi McKenzie, a versatile player with a lot of potential, is the third candidate for goal.

"All three of them could be very good goalies. I want to have several kids try out just so we don't have to panic should an injury occur. We will just have to see what happens," Noone said.

Ward last year was very impressive as a sophomore left winger. If she is not the starting goalie, she could either return at that position or help out the defense. Either way, she will help the team no matter what position she is penciled into.

The probable forwards to the team appear to be returners Catherine Townsend and Julie Gillis, as well as junior Christina Peters, who is coming back from Bishop Fenwick, and senior newcomer Laurie Johnson.

The center midfield spot is locked up by all-star Leanne Harris, whom the team will look to for leadership on and off the field. The very talented senior will be the team's quarterback, so to speak. The other midfield spots are being battled for by juniors Nicole Catazano and Suzanne Williams, as well as sophomores Christine Crowley, Julie Yentile and Leanne Bento. Paula DeCousey, a varsity returner, will be looked upon to lead the defensive crew.

The team has a lot of speed, as Noone said. Harris, Gillis, Ward, McKenzie and Ward are all quick. The goaltending situation is up in the air and the team needs a few more defensive minded players.

Last year, the boys basketball team had a similar situation - a lot of untested players who were given their shot to play and they all delivered. Given the right time, this team could easily follow that same basketball Cinderella story.

WHS All-Stars were victorious

by James Pote

Last Thursday evening, in front of a packed house at Aprile Field at Town Park, the WHS All-Stars under the very involved coaching from myself, took on the Eastern All-Stars which is made up of former professional athletes to benefit the Wilmington D.A.R.E. program.

The WHS All-Stars were current and former baseball and softball players. Playing well for the home town team were Eric Clancy in left field as well as hurler Dan Abbott, who only gave up one gopher ball to Danny Hodge. But the junior hockey and baseball player managed to get the win in the 8-7 victory that came in the last at bat for the high school team.

Even though, Don Sweeney, Ted Donato and Steve Heinze were not among those on the opposing team, the game was still a lot of fun. Ken and Danny Hodge as well as Al Pederson and Bob Miller were among the former Bruin players to play, while, Roland James and speedster Ron Lippett were among the former Patriots.

The game itself had a lot of laughs with comedian/player for the Eastern team Ron Carron putting on a histeracle act for the many kids that came to watch.

Also playing well for WHS squad, were outfielders Leanne Harris and Melissa Mather who made nice catches as well as Eric McKenna and Chris DiJulia, who also were impressive with their gloves. P.J. Heffernan had a good night with the bat.

After the game, the majority of both squads went over to Rocco's for pizza. Both teams would like to thank Chip Bruce for all of his time, efforts to put this whole evening together to benefit the D.A.R.E. program as well.

Last Thursday night, former professional athletes took on the WHS softball and baseball teams with the benefits going to the Wilmington D.A.R.E. program. The night was a lot of fun with the high school team under the direction of Jamie Pote were the winners, of course. Front row left to right is Danny Hodge, Nicole Dussault and Jacqui Holloway. Next row: two Eastern All-Stars, Nancy Pote, Lindsay Currier, Laurie Southmayd, Jill Lojek, Leanne Harris, former Patriot Roalnd James, Catherine Townsend and Melissa Mather. Back row: Former Patriot Ron Lippett, former Bruin, Bob Miller, two more Eastern All-Stars, Eric McKenna, John Covino, Eric Clancy, P.J. Heffernan, Ryan Haubner, Dan Abbott, Chris DiJulia, former Bruin Al Pederson, Scott Swiezynski, Ken Hodge, senior and D.A.R.E. officer Chip Bruce and the little guy in the middle is Ron Carran who put on a very fun show for the spectators. WHS football preview

More players than fans for football?

by James Pote

When head coach Gerry Sullivan arrived at the high school last week at seven in the morning for what was to be his team's camp, he must have thought most of his players were still sleeping.

As he got out his clipboard for roll call, he noticed just 37 kids were trying out for the WHS football team - that's the number of players that he has for the programs three teams! Just 37 kids - as many athletes as the girls soccer and the field hockey programs have.

"With school starting you never know. You may get three or four more or you may get 15 more. We have the quality of incoming freshmen, we just don't have the quantity," said Sullivan.

Last week, Sullivan and his three assistant coaches held what would be their camp. From last Monday to last Friday, the coaches had the 37 troops for eleven hours each day. Sullivan admitted that he thought that to be a little hectic, but he also said the week went very smoothly and he is very pleased with the kids' attitudes.

"So far the attitudes have been great. There have been a few kids that we have moved from [the positions they wanted to play] to other positions to benefit the team and so far the kids are accepting that," Sullivan said.

Last week the team scrimmaged Pelham, New Hampshire, who has slowly gotten their program off since it started four years ago. Wilmington destroyed them. Pelham had minus 45 yards for the entire game.

"Our defense really played well in that scrimmage. We had a lot of big hits and tackles - I think our defense will be the strongest part of the team. Right now we lack depth and we don't start off against Central Catholic [who physically destroyed us] so hopefully we can stay healthy - that is a major key," Sullivan said.

Right now, the positions are still up in the air. Many of the players are switching positions to see who fits better where. Their first game isn't until Saturday, September 9 when they travel to Newburyport. From now until then, there is still a lot of work to do. Wilmington still has a few scrimmages left and that is when they will find out what they are made of.

"We look pretty good so far. Practices have gone really well and it seems the guys have really grown up. Right now we are practicing them as if they will be playing Central Catholic in their first game. They know we demand a lot and so far they are giving it their all," Sullivan stated.

What is the third year head coach expecting in the season's opener?

"I really don't know much about them. I know they have most of their starters back from last year. I'm expecting a lot of hard hits

The Gillis brothers are currently fighting for the quarterback position. Rich, a junior, has the more experience of the two as he and Billy Harrison shared the duties last year. Tim Gillis, a sophomore, had a few minutes controlling the offense last year.

Rich did an adequate job as quarterback last year. He didn't throw that much, especially with Steve O'Neill in the backfield, and when he did, his arm strength was most definitely strong enough for him to be back there. But, many of his passes were not caught when they should have been.

Tim, a left-handed thrower, opposed to his right-handed brother, could make the offense very interesting if he should win the job. If he does, his brother would most likely be a tight end with Brian Carroll going to wide-out.

Billy Harrison will be replacing Steve O'Neill in the backfield and he will be helped out by sophomores Sean Kerrigan and Jamie Campbell as well as freshmen Mike Gennetti and John Shirley. Steve Ritucci and Sean Sullivan will also mix in as wide-outs.

Matt Haskamp will be the center. The offensive line most likely will be made up of co-captains Tom Burke and Pat Finn leading the way as a guard and tackle, respectively. Mike Cairra will most likely be the other guard with Dave DiPasquale as the other tackle. Pat and Mike O'Toole will also fill in as well.

The defense could be a surprise. It is their strongest suit and if it improves every game, then maybe the team could have a successful Cape Ann debut.

Brian Carroll and Pat Finn are the probable starting defensive tackles. Haskamp has the nod as nose guard. Dave DiPasquale, Pat and Mike O'Toole, Rich and Tim Gillis, Steve Ritucci and Billy Harrison are all competing for defensive ends spots. Sean Kerrigan, Josh Cormier, Jamie Campbell and Tom Burke will be the probable linebackers. Finally, Mike Cairra will fill in several of those spots. Wayne Cormier and Ben Cousa also look promising as defensive ends.

"Our lines are veteran lines. It will be tough because it's pretty much the same kids on offense and defense - and again we must stay healthy if we want to win," Sullivan said.

The program has not been very successful over the past couple of years, winning just two games each season. Maybe the MVC challenge was too much and maybe the Cape Ann League is where they do belong - only time will tell the answer to that question.

This season will be a telling one - because next year is supposed to be the year. A lot will be told in the first game. Will Wilmington be ready? Will they use all of the answers. And all of the answers will come from those 37 kids.

If the team comes up with a few wins off the bat, then the program could grow back into what it was four or five years ago - that is, having double the amount of participants.

Right now, the team is loaded with talented athletes. Instead of having their usual team of players who just play football, maybe this season fans will see the real talent.

WHS girls soccer preview

Vachon closing in on scoring record as team looks to rebuild

by James Pote

Even though it may be called a rebuilding year since the team lost seven of its starters from last season, the WHS girls varsity soccer team may surprise a few teams in their new league this season.

They will get the first test when they open their season on September 12th against Pentucket who knocked them out of state tournament play last year, 2-1.

"The Cape Ann League for soccer is very much similar to the Merrimack Valley. There are two dominant teams in North Andover and Masconomet that no one can touch like Chelmsford and Andover were in the [MVC]," said head coach Sue Hendee.

"I think the rest of the league is balanced. North Reading, Lynnfield and Pentucket are getting stronger programs," she continued.

Hendee also commented on what her expectations are for her team this season.

"I think this is a rebuilding year and we're looking towards the future. I would hope to qualify for the state tournament but it isn't our top priority. Overall, I'm very pleased with the number of freshmen that have come out. I'm very impressed with the sophomores and I think our biggest strength is the leadership that we have been getting from our seniors - it has been excellent."

With regular season games still two weeks away, most of the line-up is still being battled out. Hendee said she is still mulling over the different players and the positions she has open, but she also said nothing is etched in stone.

Right now, Renee Vachon and Nicole Dussault will be the senior leaders. Vachon will be looked to to put the ball in the net, while Dussault will be counted on to stop opposing teams from doing that very thing.

Vachon is closing in on breaking a WHS scoring record. Vachon needs just five goals and six assists to put her as the all-time point leader at WHS. Erin McKenna holds the record, racking up 25 goals and 12 assists in just three years.

Along with those two, the team only has three other seniors vying for spots. Cherise Thresher and Julie Stokes are both battling for mid-fielder's spots, as is Lindsay Bickford as a defender.

As for juniors, Karen DeFrancesco, Cindy Oatis and Melissa Palermo are forwards, with Nicole Ciaramaglia at stopper/midfielder, and Joan DeMarco and Joann Tamilo are going out as mid-fielders. Jill Lojek, also a junior, is a defender.

Those are the probable but not definite players on the team, with a few spots still left. Hendee said she would like to keep no less than 17 on the roster, but she also needs a few more bodies to keep her 30 kids are trying out.

A few of the underclassmen have raised some early eyebrows thus far and they consist of sophomore midfielder/defender Kristin Flynn and forward Lauren Sensi as well as freshmen Lisa Dellascio and Emily King.

The big question for the team, however, is in-between the pipes, where in the past five or so years that problem has been solved by Stacey Ouellette and Mary Armata. This year, the two leading candidates are senior Elaine Bruno and sophomore Melissa Mather.

"I probably will keep both of them. Melissa can play anywhere and her versatility will be a big help. Nicole Cote's (new JV coach and also former netminder) addition has been a big help and I think she will help both of them a lot," Hendee said.

The team's strengths right now are the scoring ability of Vachon and the speed factor up front with Vachon and Palermo. The defense took a lapse with the loss of Jacqui Hayden, but Nicole Dussault has come off of two banner years and she will most likely have a third.

If the goaltending comes through and the team utilizes its speed, then maybe they can indeed surprise some teams. The program has a good future ahead of it and even if the inexperience is obvious, there is no need for panic. The team has several gifted athletes, with many more coming up through the ranks. Experience will lead them to victories.

BUSINESS OWNERS POLICY

QUESTION: Can a small business owner buy a package policy that will combine many small policies into one?

ANSWER: That's the principle of a business package policy. Automatically included are many individual coverages for a single premium. Some of these are: Loss of Income (resulting from an insured peril), comprehensive business liability, (completed operations or product liability) with a $300,000 or one million dollar limit. Personal injury liability, including libel, slander, false arrest, wrongful eviction is included, as is replacement cost for the business property.

The beauty of a package policy is that it combines many coverages into one policy.

THE BEAUTY of business owner's insurance is that it packages many risks under one broad policy.

Goose hunt? State: ¡Si! Feds: ¡No!

by Bill Conlon
The state and the feds are at odds over Canada geese.

Massachusetts says there are too many Canada geese.

The feds say there are too few.

Interesting problem, eh?

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has noted a sharp decline in the number of migrating Canada geese, after a 5-year study. The East Coast population of the geese, from Canada's Maritimes down to the Carolinas, has dropped from 118,000 nesting pairs in 1988 to 29,000 in 1994. Not good.

So, to protect the Canada goose population, the feds have virtually shut down fall goose hunting this year.

Wait a minute! Canada geese are getting scarce? That's a surprise in Massachusetts! We have LOTS of Canada geese -- too many!

Geese have become the number one "nuisance" animal, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal Damage Control office, and in Massachusetts we've learned why. We've got geese on our baseball fields, beaches, parks, golf -- you name it -- and they're a huge headache. An adult goose downloads about a pound of goose droppings per day, leaving behind a foul-smell, slippery mess, not to mention damages to farmers and cranberry growers and grumbles at the water treatment plant. Ever gone swimming in a pond full of geese? How long did the itch last after you got out?

In some towns in New England, it's illegal to feed geese, in hopes that the curtailed food supply will convince them to move along. So far, it isn't working.

The state Division of Fisheries & Wildlife puts our resident Canada goose population at around 34,000 -- and growing.

The problem, you see, is that we have two populations of geese. The migratory birds fly overhead in the spring and fall, in the "V" formations we've come to know and love, while the stay-at-homes don't migrate at all. If they find adequate food, they're not leaving, period. We're stuck with 'em.

The state wants to trim the goose population by cutting down on the resident geese, but without nicking the migratory geese. The federal wildlife types haven't set up goose hunting at all for this fall.

So, the state has set up two goose hunting seasons, one before and one after the migration season.

Hunters in Massachusetts may go after geese from September 5 to 15 statewide, no permits needed and a five-bird bag limit (!) but the guns fall silent as the travellers come through. Hunting resumes, (in the central zone only, so as not to ding any late migrators along the coast) from January 22 to February 5, again with a five-bird limit.

Part of the problem facing goose hunters will be the near-domestic nature of the resident geese. They hide in plain sight, in the middle of public areas like parks, making it tricky to hunt them. Walking across the town beach in cammies and toting a shotgun might not go over well with the locals, I'd have to say. Pick your hunting spots carefully, and do ask permission if you plan to hunt on private land.

Another problem, as if you can't guess, will be anti-hunters. They'll howl at the idea of urban geese being gunned down, and they're sure to complain that there must be a better way. Never seen one, but they'll ask. (By the way, ever noticed how the animal-huggers pick their opponents? They yell at little old ladies for wearing furs, but they don't say boo to a biker in his riding leathers. Why is that, do you suppose?)

The state, incidentally, is formally challenging the feds' decision not to establish a fall goose hunt. The state has made a tentative agreement with the Atlantic Flyway Council for a 30-day season with a one-bird bag limit, but the feds still say no. Any comments can be sent to the chief of the Migratory Bird Management Office, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, Dept. of the Interior, MS634, ARLSQ, 1849 C.

St. NW, Washington, DC, 20006. Public comments will be accepted until September 4.

--- Tackle Box ---

In the Boston Globe on Tuesday I saw a story about a fellow down south who couldn't find his $5,000 Walker hunting hound. The dog just disappeared. But the hound had an electronic tracking collar, so the owner followed the signal to a swamp. There he found a 10-foot long alligator. The reptile was caught and dissected, and the stomach contained several collars, one of them belonging to a dog that disappeared 14 years ago.

In April of next year, look to the skies. We have a comet coming!

Wilmington Youth Figure Skating

While youngsters are preparing for back to school, the Wilmington Figure Skating Club is ready for the fall/winter season of skating at the Elinor M. Ristuccia Arena.

The Learn to Skate programs for youngsters five year of age and older will run on Tuesdays, beginning September 5, from 5:20 to 6:10 and/or Fridays, beginning September 8 also from 5:20 to 6:10. This is a 13 week session and will cost $130.00.

Skaters will receive lesson time with our highly qualified professional staff along with a qualified volunteer.

Something new for four program participants is "Learn to Skate Practice Ice" on Saturdays beginning September 9 from 1:30 to 2:20 p.m.

Back by popular demand is the "Learn to Skate" for adults. This program will run Wednesday evenings from 6:20 to 7:10 beginning September 6. There will be three 10 week sessions. The cost of each session is $100.00.

Look for information in the coming weeks on the "Snowplow Sam" program, a great way to introduce your toddler or even kindergarten youngster to skating. This program will most likely begin in early October.

For any additional information on any of the programs or for registration forms, call the club office at 694-9650.

NW Shell takes two out of three to be named champs

Playoffs continue for Wilmington Adult Softball League, and all three leagues are close to ending with the championship games coming near.

The championship games for the slow-pitch co-ed league and the modified league occurred Tuesday night, the results of those games are listed below.

On Wednesday, September sixth, Analog Devices still in the winner's bracket, will take on the winner of the loser's bracket for the championship game. If Analog loses, the same two teams will match-up on Thursday, also at 5:30.

Also, on that same night at seven o'clock, Uptown Deli and Rocco's will battle it out with the winner automatically going into the championship game and the loser of that game will play the winner of the Stelio's/Lions Club game which starts at 8:15.

Here's a look at this past week's playoff games:

Industrial League

Analog Devices 10
Continental Cable 8

Gary Carreau led the charge for Analog as he clubbed two homers and drove in five teammates to surpass the powerful CTV team with a 10-8 victory.

Joe LeCoste was the winning pitcher and he helped himself out with two base hits.

As for CTV, Dan and Rob Santos and Gerry O'Reilly all had two hits each.

Modified Division

McHugh Tile 14
Pizza Mia/Roger's Radiat. 10
McHugh Tile beat the defending champs to send the championship series into another game. Ernie Peabody and Jay Barrett led the way offensively with three hits each, while, hurler Paul Bova struck out 12 PM-RR batters including the side in the bottom of the seventh.

Mark Lopez had three hits for the losing effort which included two doubles.

Championship Game

Pizza Mia/RogersRadiator12
McHugh Tile 5

PM-RR made it two years in a row as champions, with a 12-5 defeat over McHugh Tile.

John Nolan, Bobby Aprile and Billy Sinopoli all had two hits to lead the offense, while the latter was once again the winning pitcher.

Teddy Moran and Paul Bova had flashes of their high school reunion as they both smashed homeruns.

The champions were: Tommy and Bobby Aprile, Jim Litwinski, John Nolan, Mike Herra, Mark Lopez, Donnie Foley, Joey Murray, Mike Alomardo, Bobby Beals, Billy Sinopoli, Ray and Mike Mercuri, Billy Naimo and Rich Rappoli.

Co-Ed Slow Pitch

Robarge Landscaping 14
NW Shell 9

In the first of three meetings, Robarge Landscaping won the first 14-9, before losing in the second 16-3 and then the championship game, 13-11.

Tim Robarge led his troops with a 3-4 night and he was helped by Fred Antinerelli, who not only had two hits himself, but he was also the winning pitcher.

Tim Moran, the losing pitcher, had two homeruns for NW Shell.

Robarge's 17
Norm's 7

Going into the last inning, Robarge's only had a 8-6 lead, but they broke the dam open with a nine run seventh inning. Dennis Robarge, John Palmer, Bryon Kincaid, Eric Cushing and Glen McLaughlin all chipped in with three hits each for the winning squad.

Tim McCann, Dennis Walsh, Norm Keough and Karen Evans each contributed in the losing side with two hits each.

NW Shell 17
Robarge's 0

In their second thrown shutout of the playoffs, NW Shell's pitcher Melissa Barrett held Robarge's to just two hits in the five inning mercy run rule game.

In the offensive explosion for NW Shell, both Rob Santos and Tom Moran went deep, while, Mike Connell was 3-3 including an inside the park homerun. Also having a good nights were Jay Barrett with three hits and Bob Ducharme and Rich Hayden with two each.

Championship Game

NW Shell 13

Melissa Barrett once again was the winning pitcher. Offensively her husband, Jay had two hits and he was followed by clutch performances by Mike Connell and Tom Moran (homerun).

Jack's team headed to Nationals

For the second straight year, Jack's softball team of Wilmington, will be making their second straight National softball appearance.

Last year, when the monstrous tourney was held here in Wilmington and Tewksbury, the team won its first game after the umpires decided to call every person that has ever thought about becoming a pitcher, illegal - therefore, the game took twice as long, but it was worth it as Paul Bova smacked a homerun in the teams last at bat to win their only game.

This year, however, the team hopes to play more games than the three they played last Labor Day weekend. This year instead of hearing the home crowd, the team will be listening to the crowd of Burlington, North Carolina in the Major A Mens National Softball extravaganza.

Several players from last year are not on the team this year. Gone are Artie Bibeau, Donnie Foley, Bobby and Ray Noel, and Todd Richards to name a few and they have been replaced by a few out of towners as well as local players such as Jimmy Litwinski and Mike Alornardo.

The pitching is led by Paul Bova with Kris Hinxman and Bobby Aprile as the back-ups. Aprile also plays first with Jim Litwinski at second, Tom Moran at third and Bobby Beals at shortstop. Tim Moran is the catcher.

Ray Mercuri and Tom Aprile make up two of the fastest outfielders around, with Salvi Woods and Mike Alornardo also getting time out there as well.

It could be a long ride for the team ... details of their weekend will appear in next week's paper.

Candace Sousa waits for a play at third base for the Wilmington 12 and under softball team who entered the 40 team tournament held in Tewksbury this past weekend. (Photo by Steve Picano).

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never found to fail)
O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.
O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.
O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sox pennant fever grows

By PAUL FEELY

The months of September and October can be both the best of times and the worst of times for New Englanders. While the fall foliage in these parts is unbeatable, the perennial fall from grace that the Red Sox experience almost annually has caused many locals to wish that the seasons could leap from summer immediately into winter, despite the snow.

Not this year.

Baseball fans and non-fans alike have been caught up in the mass hysteria that has afflicted the members of the so-called "Red Sox Nation", as Boston continues to make the 1995 regular season look like a boring opening act for that annual October party known as the playoffs.

The Red Sox are currently enjoying the largest first-place lead that any Boston club has had since 1946, and fans throughout the local area are getting caught up in the excitement.

"I try to tune into as many games as I can, and when I'm not at home I listen to them on the radio," said Steve Marino of Melrose, as he picked up a hoagie in a local sub shop. "I even read the papers every morning, and watched a few West Coast games."

Most sportswriters and so-called baseball experts predicted at the start of this season that there wouldn't be a pennant race in the American League East once September arrived, and that the New York Yankees would run away with the division title.

But the Bronx Bombers are currently fading from the picture quicker than a summer tan, while the Red Sox continue to steamroll over any team that dares to take the field against them.

"I didn't expect much from the Sox this year," said Tony DePalma of Wilmington, who claims to have been born wearing a Red Sox hat 27 years ago. "I try to figure out why they're winning, but I haven't got a clue. There must be someone looking out for them this year, instead of crapping on them."

He may have a point. A lot of newspaper and perfectly good trees have been used over the years so that writers can chronicle the so-called "Curse of the Bambino", which has afflicted the Red Sox ever since Monday, January 5, 1920 - that fateful day when Boston owner Harry Frazee sold slugger/pitcher Babe Ruth to the Yankees for $100,000 cash and a $300,000 loan for a mortgage on Fenway Park.

Ruth would go on to lead New York to six pennants and three World Series titles in the 1920's, while the Sox have supposedly been cursed ever since for committing the ultimate sin against the player that many consider to be one of the greatest in the history of the game.

But there have been signs and rumors that the curse may be over. This is after all the centennial anniversary of the birth of Ruth (an occasion historic enough to break the jinx), and published interviews with Ruth's daughter, Julia Ruth Stevens, have quoted her as saying that this "might be the year that the jinx gets broken."

"I think there's some crazy mojo in the air around here," said Bill Zane, who was watching a Sox game on the television at the Ground Round in Stoneham. "I haven't even seen any fights in the bleachers this year when I go to Fenway. It's like nothing bad can happen there."

Is it possible that this is finally the year? Will all the pent-up frustration that Boston fans have been dealing with over the years, watching Johnny Pesky hesitate on a throw during the

"All rise," the court officer intoned, "Judge Roy Bean, the Law East of the Pecos presiding. The case to be heard is, The Revere Beach Retired Federal Chicken Inspectors Versus, The Woodchipper."

The Chipper is charged with saying that the Chicken Inspectors look over the beautiful "chicks" who walk or jog near Kelley's. It is admitted that, "Fowl Language" is never used.

Judge Roy Bean said, "Chipper, you look familiar to me, have you ever been up before me?" "I don't know your Honor," I replied, "what time do you get up?"

"I mean, have you ever appeared in this court before? if so in what suit?" "I think it was my light brown one sir."

"Miss Curtis will now question you." "Where were you born?" In Pittsburgh Pennsylvania. "How long ago?" "I don't know, I was very small and weighted only two pounds." "Did you grow any?" "Oh! you ought to see me now."

"Another foolish answer like Woodchips to S-4

1946 Series, or a routine grounder magically pass between Bill Buckner's legs in 1986, or Bucky Dent's abomination in 1978, finally be released?

Who knows at this point. The Red Sox still have about a month left before the regular season ends, and then (if they qualify) the fun begins with the new expanded playoff format. One thing is for certain though: if Boston does somehow manage to capture its first world championship since 1918, the team's fans will hold celebrations that may not end until Opening Day, 1996.

"I really don't know what I'd do if they ever won it all," said Tom Goodwin of Malden, as he watched the Sox take on the Yankees at Fenway recently. "That's not something you want to think about, never mind talk about, when you're here (at Fenway) or else you might jinx them."

Free Blues concert Labor Day weekend

On Saturday, September 2, from 6 to 8 pm, Wakefield 350 is proud to present a concert by one of the area's premiere blues bands, the Radio Kings.

A fixture on the Boston blues scenes for the past several years, the Radio Kings have earned a reputation for mixing time honored styles and classic tunes with their own new music and delivering a performance that resonates with powerful execution.

Blending classic rock with country with electric blues, the music combines guitar, harmonica, accordion and drums with expressive vocals and driving rhythms.

The Radio Kings was started in 1991 when Michael Dinallo and Brian Templeton put together a band that went on to win the Boston Battle of the Blues Bands. Most of 1992 was spent touring North America with ace harmonica player Jerry Portnoy, who is currently playing with Eric Clapton.

The band has recently returned from a tour throughout the South. Their new CD, "It Ain't Easy," has just been released by Ice House Records of Memphis, Tennessee.

The Radio Kings in the second of Wakefield 350's fall "Concerts on the Common." Future performers will include Sleepy LaBeef (September 9), John Lincoln Wright and the Sourmash Boys, (September 16), the Yankee Notions (September 25).

The season will conclude with the Homecoming Celebration, which will combine seasonal entertainments (Hayrides, pie-eating contest, scarecrow building) with performances (the Class of '66, the Oktoberfest Oompa-pa Band and Ninots Puppets) and children's amusements, with a juried Craft Fair, featuring the work of some of the areas finest craftsmen. For more information, call 246-3070.

2nd annual Wildlife Art Exhibit at Stone Zoo

On September 29th through October 1st, Friends of Stone Zoo will host the Second Annual Art Exhibit. The event will showcase wildlife and animal artwork of local artists and photographers. Plus there will be live demonstrations of painting, drawing, carvings and sculpting all on display at Stone Zoo.

"Last year's show was so well received by both artists and the public that we've expanded it from a one day to a three day exhibit," said event chairperson, Janice Laskey. "Wildlife art is becoming more and more popular in the U.S. and Friends of Stone Zoo welcomes this opportunity to provide a showcase for New England artisans."

As a non profit organization, FOSZ depends of 'Friends' help to make events successful. The exhibit is funded in part by the Stoneham Arts Lottery Council, but other support is always critical. Anyone who can contribute a raffle prize, provide any type of donation, would like to be a sponsor in the ad book, or would like to exhibit work, please contact Friends of Stone Zoo for more information by calling 617-438-7459.

Visiting Nurses Hospice program seeks volunteers

Roberta was terminally ill and being cared for at home by her husband and sister. Her husband has assumed a lighthearted demeanor and assured her she would get well once she stopped pitying herself. Roberta's sister, on the other hand, was barely able to hold back the tears. Roberta felt that neither could discuss her anxieties. The nurse for the Visiting Nurse Hospice, an affiliate of the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex East, suggested a volunteer might be helpful.

Hospice, philosophy of home care for the terminally ill that stresses maximizing the quality of life and minimizing discomfort, was already providing the services of a nurse, home health aid, social worker, chaplain and occupational therapist. Now a volunteer was introduced as another member of the hospice team.

During weekly visits the volunteer listened to Roberta and learned of her concerns. One was that her sister was ignoring her own needs.

Together, the patient, the sister and the hospice volunteer agreed that the volunteer would accompany the sister on an occasional afternoon of personal errands of shopping. During this time the patient would be cared for by the home health aide. Many kinds of support

The role of the volunteer varies according to each family's needs and the volunteer's needs. Volunteers can offer support in many different ways. With direct patient care the volunteer may offer assistance writing letters, reading to the patients, performing yard work, running errands of simply holding a hand.

In addition to direct patient care, there is a real need for administrative volunteer support. This support is key to the Hospice team's success. Typical activities include (but are not limited to) mailing bereavement, follow-up, secretarial support, special events, cooking, etc.

At times hospice work is difficult, but the Visiting Nurse Hospice provides support to the volunteer, both through team conferences with all staff involved with the patient and through regular meetings with other program volunteers and the volunteer coordinator.

The most positive aspect of hospice work, however, is a sense of having been needed and having fulfilled that need. In the process, the volunteer develops new perspective concerning the quality of life and the the setting of priorities.

The race benefits the Stoneham D.A.R.E. program, directed by Police Officer Thomas Cullen.

The race is run on Town Day,

Race registrations are requested by September 1 at $10 per runner. Race day registrations will be accepted at $12 per runner. Free tee-shirts will be available to the first 150 pre-registered runners.

Free Caribbean Concert in Woburn August 30th

The rhythms of Caribbean and Spanish music will come to this area when Jorge Arce with his band, HUMANO, performs at a free public concert on Wednesday evening, August 30, at Library Park in Woburn.

This area's first public concert of Latin American music is presented by the council of Social Concern and Woburn National Bank.

"This concert will give area residents the best opportunity to enjoy Latin American music, and understand how it evolved from our countries with the music of the United States," said Jose A. Santiago, Hispanic Program Director of Social Concern.

HUMANO is a 10 member group of musicians from throughout the Caribbean and South America, including Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Venezuela, Ecuador, Curacao, Argentina, Cuba and the United States.

Founded in 1987, HUMANO is a combination of traditional Latin sound with modern and jazz musical influences. The musicians combine rooted Caribbean and traditional acoustic and brass instruments, such as conga drums, timbales, bongos, claves, piano, flute, saxophone, trumpet, and trombone, with modern sound instruments such as drums, synthesizer and electric bass.

The concert will be held from 7-9 pm at the Rotary Bandstand at Library Park in Woburn (behind the Woburn Public Library), and is free to the public. Those who attend are encouraged to bring lawnchairs or blankets for this special family evening.

Look: a quiet story

Dial 9-1-WAIT

Originally scheduled for September, the 911 emergency line is slated to go on-line in Reading on October 25th, the same date planned for communities such as North Reading, Wilmington and Billerica.

The new system E-911 - enhanced 911 - is an improvement on the old system, allowing a dispatcher to view the location of the caller - whether on a home, business or pay phone, and then, with a push of the button, direct the caller to the appropriate service - police, fire or ambulance.

This method is expected to eliminate misinformation.

If a line is busy, calls can be bounced - after six rings - to other dispatch centers in the area. Once the equipment is ready, dispatchers and desk officers must complete an E-911 eight-hour training course.

The systems have to come on line in a certain order, according to Reading Police Lieutenant Bob Silva, and a problem in any town can cause others to have to wait in line for on-line. The E-911 systems are being paid for through revenue generated from 411 information calls.

Meanwhile, dial your standard local numbers for police or fire emergencies.

Designing man

Governor William Weld has appointed Winchester's Mark Lombardi to the state Designer Selection Board, an autonomous 11-member board responsible for overseeing design selections for state construction projects.

Lombardi - launched from one of the SelectFest to Designing Man - sees his mission as ensuring complete compliance with the intent and spirit of the relevant laws. The DSB has been authorized to hire an executive director and such staff as deemed necessary, subject to appropriations.

Officer John Daigle stopped a beautiful young lady's car for not obeying a stop sign. While he was looking over her license, she exclaimed, "Officer I want you to know that I have 'CONTACTS'." "Well," Officer Daigle replied, "I don't personally care if you know Bob Burns, Jimmy Quinno and even the Woodchipper, your license shows 'you' wearing GLASSES!"

I remember saying to Football Coach Silvio Cella, "I see that you have a great quarterback this year. He can run, pass and kick the football a country mile. How is he scholastically Coach?" "Well," Mr. Cella replied, "he makes straight, 'A's' but his, 'B's' are a little crooked."

Folks, the old saying, "Boys don't make passes at girls who wear glasses is simply NOT true, especially if they have beautiful 'FRAMES'."

One of the saintliest priests I have ever known was Father Dan O'Leary of St. Theresa's Church. His sermons were brief but to the point. One morning his message was, "We are on this earth to help others."

Uncle John Shea, who was sitting in the pew in front of me, turned and said, "Chipper can you tell me what the others are here for?"

The golf courses are so crowded with players a golfer has to make an appointment.

Kathy asked me, "why don't you play golf with, Joe Nugent, 'Clinker' Eydenberg and Dicky Powers anymore?" "Well," I replied, "would you play golf with someone who moves the ball when he thinks that no one is looking?"

"Of course I wouldn't!" she declared. I smiled and said, "they won't either."

Part of the Postal Service motto is, "Neither storm, sleet or dark of night will stop us on our appointed rounds" etc.

Some golfers go one better. Kevin Fisher came home dog tired. "what happened?" his lovely wife Shirley asked. "Oh what a day!" Kevin moaned.

Harry dropped dead on the 4th Tee and from then on it was, Tee off and carry Harry, Tee off and carry Harry."

Bob Butler wears two pairs of pants when he goes golfing in case he gets a Hole in One.

Stan Black the handsome president of "Trend Lines" thanked his wife Emy for twelve wonderful years of marriage. Stan then turned to me and said, "Chipper, I've been married 37 years."

Want a good job? Start with an interview

"Most people who are seeking new positions have difficulty in their job search because of a poor approach to obtaining interviews," claims John D. Erdlen, Executive Director of the Northeast Human Resources Association (NEHRA).

"This critical step in the job hunting process is often taken for granted by candidates who assume that the major emphasis should be placed on preparing for the interview itself," he explains.

"As one might expect," Erdlen notes, "the applicants rejected for interviews are far greater in number than the individuals who are invited to meet privately with an employer." In many instances, the employment representatives, in conjunction with hiring managers, make the decisions on selecting which candidates should be interviewed."

Recently, NEHRA asked its members to note the more common reasons for an employer eliminating an applicant from job consideration prior to the interview process. Their answers included:

Failure to tailor a cover letter to answer an ad and specifically address the requirements of the job. Duties and responsibilities are often noted while accomplishments are ignored.

Unrealistic compensation requirements that price the individual beyond the salary range of the job.

Sending correspondence and resumes to individuals or departments not involved in the hiring process.

Poor resumes and incomplete job applications that portray an inadequate picture of the candidate's experience and qualifications.

Unrealistic job aspirations, wherein the position being sought does not appear in keeping with the individual's educational qualifications, work experience, and overall experience.

Being less than positive about credentials in telephone screening conversations with employers.

Ad Responses Encouraged
There are two other major factors, according to Dr. Barbara Addison Reid, Vice President of NEHRA, that can prevent the job seeker from securing an interview.

1. Failure to respond to box number ads. Many job hunters are suspicious of these unidentified ads and refuse to respond to them. "This is a serious error in judgment," maintains Reid, who states, "most of these ads represent valid openings and many employers utilize this format for filling critical positions."

2. Selection of an ineffective employment agency. Often job candidates will choose an agency that is convenient rather than productive. They fail to check references to determine their track records, then wonder why interviews are not forthcoming. "Selection of a good agency is important," says Reid, "since they are a significant source of applicants and fill thousands of jobs annually."

Both Erdlen and Reid emphasize that few people receive job offers without an interview, therefore job hunters should utilize every resource available in order to secure that all important interview.

Jack Delaney is on top of the world

Delaney in Australia

Jack Delaney, down under? As if.

Reading's Parker Middle School Principal Dr. Jack Delaney - former president of the National Association of Secondary School Principals - has been elected president of an international association of school principals at its recent conference in Australia. He was nominated for this honor, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harry Harutunian, "by a few European countries."

Fay in FL

"William J. Fay, Jr., who will replace Barbara Brown as principal of the Banyan Creek Elementary in Delray Beach has only been in the district for three years but has a wealth of experience," reads the "Local Extra" section of a recent "Sun-Sentinel."

The former Wilmington superintendent of schools, Fay is one of nine new principals in Palm Beach County's Boca Raton - Delray Beach - Boynton Beach - Lantana area.

"He spent over 20 years in the educational system in Massachusetts where he was a history teacher, middle school principal and superintendent.

"M.E.'s for You"

"I know what it's like to get all caught up in the bureaucracy of education," Fay said. "So this is a relief to be able to put all my energy into working with the younger children."

Reorganization in Lynnfield

Lynnfield's K-12 physical education - health department head position has been reorganized because, according to the "Lynnfield Villager," its work load - which also involved .6-time teaching, proved too taxing.

Lynnfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Palermo, constrained by the already set FY'96 budget, has expanded that position into two positions: that of physical education coordinator who will teach .8-time and focus on developing and refining the physical education curriculum and that of health coordinator who will teach .8-time and handle the health curriculum and grant administration.

Prior to last year, the director of physical education, health and athletics had no teaching responsibilities. Last year, former Superintendent Dr. John Flores reorganized that position in to two: director of athletics with a .6-time teaching responsibility and K-12 physical education - health department head.

The health responsibilities encompassed administration of a health protection grant, service on the town health advisory board and staff evaluations, a load which, according to the "Villager" was "said to have been too time-consuming." When health educator Mary Patrick decided to relinquish the position and return to teaching full-time, there were no applicants from within the system for the job.

Tradition in Wakefield

Wakefield Superintendent of Schools Terrance Holmes made history at Wakefield High's 148th commencement when he lead a procession of more than 50 faculty members and 215 graduating seniors onto the field.

For the first time in WHS history, faculty members - participating in graduation for the first time - wore caps and gowns displaying their college colors.

The presentation by Student Council President Emily Shea of the "first annual class banner" marked another first. The banner will be displayed at the school until next year's class presents its banner. Class of '95 Vice President Lauren Anderson designed the colorful WHS Warrior banner which proclaims "respect and responsibility."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Wayside Bazaar celebrates 40th anniversary

Well known Wayside Bazaar, a fixture for party goods, toys and back to school supplies is celebrating its 40th anniversary this month.

The original store was started in 1955 in Stoneham and was an instant success, quickly outgrowing its Main St. headquarters and forcing the ownership to find new quarters.

Within one year of its opening the store was moved to its present location at 107 Main St., Reading just north of Route 128 on route 28 across the street from Harrow's Restaurant.

The business continued to grow as new lines were purchased and families from throughout the region took advantage of its large selection and low prices.

The selling philosophy from the outset was to purchase products at the lowest possible price and pass the savings on to the customer. That policy is still in effect today.

"Your Dollar Goes Far at Wayside Bazaar" became the popular slogan in their advertisements and customers continued to show up in growing numbers.

Today Wayside has diversified into many product lines but still features its strong lines of party goods, paper products, toys and school and office supplies as well as costumes, games and street hockey gear at discount prices. They have also grown with such lines as party balloons and special occasion balloons of all types and sizes.

As always there remains a pleasant and courteous sales staff and a well organized and well stocked shelves.

Forty years later Wayside still stands by its original practices and its customers continue to show up in droves to take advantage of its prices.

Patricia Leen of Woburn MVNS awards scholarship

It all started with a dislocated knee. Now, area resident Patricia Leen is on her way to a career in physical therapy with a little help from the Melrose Visiting Nurse Service, 50 Tremont St., Melrose.

She has won the agency's Arnold D. Fiascone Scholarship $1,000 for this academic year. MVNS named the scholarship last fall to recognize Arnold Fiascone M.D. for his 34 years of service to the MVNS Well Child Health Service. He is the WCHS pediatrician.

Leen is a junior at Simmons College in Boston, pursuing a double major in PT and Human Services. After she receives a bachelor of science degree in health science for PT in 1997, she plans to continue in the six year program at Simmons to earn a master of science degree in P.T. Students in a nursing or physical, occupational or speech therapy program who have high academic standing and a commitment to a career in one of those disciplines, and reside in the MVNS 12 town primary service area are invited to apply for the scholarship. MVNS provides the scholarship through gifts to its Memorial Fund.

Health is a long standing concern of Leen's. Since freshman year at college, she has volunteered on the Student Health Advisory Committee; she has been appointed its president for 1995-96. In high school, she volunteered in a special program at the former CMK Nautilus in Woburn to help athletes train physically and mentally for the Special Olympics.

PATRICIA LEEN, has won the Fiascone Scholarship, awarded by the Melrose Visiting Nurse Service, 50 Tremont St., Melrose, for this school year.

The daughter of Edward and Marie Leen of Woburn, she has volunteered at Winchester Hospital, in various departments, since 1988; she is now a volunteer PT aide. She is employed in the hospital's Health Information Management/Medical Record department and with the CHEM Cancer registry, a consortium of local hospitals that collects data for statistical use and research. She's also been on the Dean's List for all her four semesters at Simmons.

In addition to her school volunteer and work experience,

Leen has learned about health care and patient care from her sister, Betsy, a nurse at Sinai Hospital in Stoughton, and her aunt, Kathie Pazola an RN at Mass General Hospital. Both her parents are teachers (he in Woburn middle schools, she in the Arlington High School Language Department). Tricia's grandmother, Grace Leen, was also a nurse.

The registered nurses on the staff of MVNS, plus physical, occupational and speech therapists, home health aides, social workers and a nutritionist provide health care to clients at home. They continue to make "house calls" in Melrose, as the agency has for 70 years, and in more than 10 surrounding communities. Those communities include Woburn, Winchester, Stoneham, Reading, North Reading, Wakefield, Lynnfield and Malden.

The independent, community based agency also offers wellness care, monthly immunizations for children new born to age 5; kindergarten physical exams, and camp physicals for youth to age 12, all by a pediatrician, plus "wellness check-ups" for adults, and programs for families, such as the new Maternal Early Discharge Program (MOM). MOM provides nursing and baby oriented home health aide services for new moms coming home from the hospital after a short maternity stay.

Leen became interested in physical therapy when the former shot put and discus thrower dislocated her knee after the last meet of her sophomore year in high school. She had PT for about three months and was "particularly interested in my PT's knowledge and ability to restore my mobility." Today, she says, the knee is fine. Leen plans to double major in PT and human services "to focus on the whole person" who needs rehabilitative care.

A sense of humor can take you far

Apparently, climbing the corporate ladder is a laughing matter, according to top executives in a new survey. More than 90 percent of respondents said they believe a good sense of humor is key for advancement.

The survey was developed by Accountemps, the world's largest temporary staffing service for accounting, finance and bookkeeping. It was conducted by independent research firm, which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Executives were asked, "How important is a good sense of humor in reaching senior management levels?" their responses:

Very important 45%
Somewhat important 46%
Not very important 6%
Not at all important 2%
Not sure/don't know 1%

"A good sense of humor helps build personal rapport and a greater spirit of cooperation," said Max Messmer, Chairman of Accountemps. "When the pressure mounts and deadlines loom, humor helps diffuse tension. Individuals with a healthy sense of humor tend to work well with others -- a critical management skill."

Messmer does not advise taking notes during slapstick comedies, however. "A sense of humor must be appropriate for the professional setting of an office. Low key and understated humor works best. Practical jokes and wisecracks won't take you very far, what will only harm your chances for career advancement."

"This survey counters the notion that the serious, stoic worker is more likely to get promoted," said Tony Manfredi, Accountemps area manager for central New England. "When people are confident enough to laugh at situations and at themselves, they are easier to work with."

In Tewksbury

Free hunter education course

Massachusetts Hunter Education Instructor George Rost Jr. will hold a Basic Hunter Education Course at the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club, 79 Chandler St., Tewksbury. This course is free to the general public and is handicapped accessible. Register at first class.

Instruction will take place on September 7, 14, 28; October 5, 12, & 19. Students must attend every session. Classes will run 7 to 9 pm. Adults, as well as younger men and women, are encouraged to attend. A Massachusetts Hunter Education Certificate is provided to course graduates, 15 years or older. Youngsters, ages 10-14, may participate and receive a "Letter of Completion" to meet out of state licensing requirements. Parental permission is required for all students under 18 years of age.

Each year volunteer instructors and Massachusetts Environmental Police hold over 100 hunter education courses throughout the state. The state certificate issued at these classes services two legal purposes.

First, this card allows young men and women between 15 and 17 years old to hunt alone on their first Massachusetts hunting license.

Secondly, the certificate is frequently necessary for either adults or minors to purchase a hunting license from other U.S. states and Canadian provinces.

All states in the northeast have such requirements, except for Massachusetts. Many experienced hunters participate to qualify for out of state licenses.

For additional information on courses, write HUNTER EDUCATION, P.O. Box 408, Westminster, MA. 01473-0408 or call the bureau office at (508)792-7434.

Annual Irish American Road Race in Malden

The Malden Irish American Club is preparing for what they believe will be their most successful 5K/10K Labor Day Road Race in years.

Race Director, John Rivers, attributes this to the festive family atmospheres. "Each Year, this event has become more of a family festival. First, we've increased the field of participants to over 500 by having both a 5K and 10K course. Secondly, we have great sponsors including: Davidson Chevrolet, Converse, Bud Light, M&M Mars, Smart Food, Poland Spring, 10K and Kayem, and to top it off we have the Andy Healy Band. Mixing all of the above ingredients should make for hours of fun!"

Rivers was quick to point out that funds raised benefit the American Lung Association of Middlesex County. Monies raised support the fight against lung disease and the promotion lung health especially those affecting children. "For 90 years the Lung Association has worked to keep our air clean, and if you exercise outdoors, you know how important that is. They provide education on smoking and asthma to schools, and send kids with asthma to camp to learn how to better manage their asthma."

Registration for the race will be at 9 am on Labor Day, September 4th. The race will begin promptly at 11 am at the Irish American Club, 177 West Street, Malden. All entry fees are only $12. Each participant will receive a t-shirt and information packet. All participants will also be entered into a contest to win a Converse running suit.

Registration forms are available by calling the Malden Irish American Club at 617-321-7720 or the American Lung Association at 617-272-2866.

MOVIES

'Desperado' Short Takes

Desperado, starring Antonio Banderas, Joaquim de Almeida, Salma Hayek, Steve Buscemi, Cheech Marin. Written and directed by Robert Rodriguez. Produced by Rodriguez and Bill Borden. Rated R.

A lot of us were holding our breath and trying not to get our hopes up for the first major outing by writer/director Robert Rodriguez. Although Desperado is supposedly a sequel, it was widely assumed he was essentially remaking "El Mariachi," his extremely cool, no-budget breakthrough film. Only this time Rodriguez had a big budget, a big studio behind him, and a big star in the form of flavor-of-the-month, Antonio Banderas. The whole affair smacked of Hollywood excess.

The surprise is that "Desperado" is not the bloated failure we expected. Rodriguez may not quite live up to the promise he showed in his original tale of a blood-thirsty mariachi, but stylistically, he is everything we could want in a filmmaker. The problem is that the whole movie is right there on the screen. There is no substance to back up his pretty camera work.

In the original, a mariachi, the least threatening character in Western movies and Mexican folklore, is mistaken for a hired assassin who carries his weapons in a guitar case. There was a lot of humor, but also a strong storyline and gritty violence. Rodriguez barely sketched out a plot for his follow-up, so he had to rely exclusively on his talent as a director and the charisma of his star.

Luckily, this flick looks simply amazing. Rodriguez, who often donned the camera himself, employed slow motion, limbo shots, extreme close-ups, and numerous weird angles. Banderas doesn't do much but smolder and look sexy, but he does both quite well - and the camera just loves him. Ditto for his sexy co-star, Salma Hayek.

Even if the plot is paper thin, there is a lot of humor in this flick. A haunting ballad, "The Strange Face of Love," plays while the mariachi, a man with no name, tears a bar apart with his guitar case full of weapons. Of course, the mariachi is never seriously hurt by the storm of bullets exploding around him, and he always knows just when to shoot the bad guys creeping up behind him.

The sex scene between the mariachi and Hayek, who plays a resourceful bookstore owner, is a hoot. All candles and campy close-ups, it cuts away to the bored grunting of the mariachi enemy, a drug lord (Joaquim de Almeida) teetering on the brink of a nervous breakdown. In fact, the real sex scenes are between Banderas and his pistol.

Rodriguez' sense of humor extended to the casting. Cheech Marin shows up as a crusty bartender, and Quentin Tarantino as a minor league bad guy who nervously runs his mouth. Most of the original cast of "El Mariachi" are seen in bit parts. Even Carlos Gallardo, who had the title role last time around, appears as one of Banderas' blackclad, killer musician friends.

Short Takes

A Walk in the Clouds is a noble failure from director Alfonso Arau ("Like Water for Chocolate"), as there are no psychic reverberations this time, no thrills, just a heavy feeling of overt sentimentality. Keanu Reeves is a married WWII soldier whose life collides with the beautiful but despairing daughter of a California vineyard owner. There is no denying the chemistry between Reeves and his smoldering costar, Aitana Sanchez-Gijon, but he is nearly as wooden as ever and the film buckles under the weight of rigid predictability. Still, this is a gorgeous if surreal film that has its moments, just not enough of them.  1/2

Beyond Rangoon uses the political unrest in Burma as the backdrop to a personal reawakening by an emotionally damaged woman. Patricia Arquette is the doctor who reconnects with the world while illegally touring Burma the year Nobel Peace prize winner, Aung San Suu Kyi, is first placed under house arrest. Director John Boorman occasionally tells us more than he shows us, but this is still one of the best releases this summer. Arquette is a formidable actress, showing marked determination and
